KATHERINE B. FORREST, District Judge:

On January 5, 2012, plaintiff Stacy Sanchez brought this action against defendants Gansevoort Management Group Inc. and Carlton Noel Campbell for violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 ("FLSA"), 29 U.S.C. §§ 201-219, and New York Labor Laws, N.Y.L.L. § 195, N.Y.C.R.R. § 142-2. (See Compl., ECF No. 1.) The action was reassigned to the undersigned on October 4, 2012.

On November 8, 2012, plaintiff Sanchez, along with plaintiff Nikisha Obermuller, filed an amended complaint against the same defendants alleging substantially similar claims, and adding a claim for "breach of contract, unjust enrichment and quantum meruit." (See Am. Compl., ECF

No. 28.) The amended complaint clarified that plaintiffs seek legal redress in connection with their work for defendants as fire guards. (See id. ¶¶ 14-15.)

On November 21, 2012, plaintiffs moved to conditionally certify this matter as a collective action under 29 U.S.C. § 216(b). For the reasons that follow, plaintiffs' motion is GRANTED, subject to the modifications to its proposed form of notice imposed by the Court.

DISCUSSION

Section 216(b) of the FLSA authorizes employees to maintain collective actions where they are “similarly situated” with respect to the alleged violations of the FLSA. 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); Myers v. Hertz Corp., 624 F.3d 537, 555 (2d Cir. 2010). Similarly situated employees must “opt in” to an action by filing a “consent in writing to become . . . a party.” 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

Certification of a “collective action” is a two-step process in the Second Circuit. See Myers, 624 F.3d at 554–55. At the first step (conditional certification), the Court simply authorizes notice to be sent to potential similarly situated plaintiffs. Id. at 555. Plaintiffs bear the light burden of making a “modest factual showing” that the named initial plaintiff(s) and the potential opt-in plaintiffs “together were victims of a common policy or plan that violated the law.” Id. (quoting Hoffman v. Sbarro, Inc., 982 F. Supp. 249, 261 (S.D.N.Y. 1997)). The burden may be satisfied through the pleadings and affidavits alone. Iglesias-Mendoza v. La Bell Farm, Inc., 239 F.R.D. 363, 367 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

At the second step, defendants have the opportunity to move for decertification if, after additional discovery, the record shows that the opt-in plaintiffs are not, in fact, similarly situated to the named plaintiff(s). See Myers, 624 F.3d at 555.

Here, plaintiffs have satisfied the light burden they bear at the first stage of certification. They allege, among other things, that defendants (1) failed to pay them overtime premiums, (2) failed to properly calculate overtime, and (3) failed to pay the applicable minimum wage. (See Am. Compl. ¶¶ 16-26, 31, ECF No. 28.) Plaintiff Sanchez also submitted an affidavit in support of this motion. (Sanchez Aff. ¶ 1, ECF No. 31.) In the affidavit, Sanchez swears to have observed “other employees who performed the same job duties that [Sanchez] performed.” (Id. ¶ 2.) Sanchez also swears to have knowledge that those other employees worked more than forty hours per week but were not separately paid an overtime premium. (Id. ¶¶ 3-4.) Because the pleadings and the affidavit, taken together, suggest a common policy of failing to pay required overtime premiums, that showing suffices for conditional certification.¹

Nevertheless, the affidavit does not suffice to conditionally certify the entirety of plaintiffs' proposed collective action. In particular, it does not speak to a common policy or practice of failing to pay the applicable minimum wage. The unverified amended complaint does not, standing alone, suffice to conditionally certify a class on that basis.

The Court notes that, while plaintiff's affidavit is relatively sparse with facts, defendants have put forth no reason to suggest that defendant's employees who claim not to have been paid their required overtime premiums should not be able to litigate their claims collectively. In this way, the instant motion differs from cases where courts have denied conditional certification in the face of minimalist supporting affidavits. See, e.g., Flores v. Osaka Health Spa, Inc., No. 05 Civ. 962, 2006 WL 695675 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 16, 2006); Levinson v. Primedia Inc., 02 Civ. 2222, 2003 WL 22533428 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 6, 2003).

Accordingly, the Court hereby conditionally certifies a collective action of all current and former employees of defendants who allege not to have been paid overtime premiums to which they were legally entitled under the FLSA. Should facts develop suggesting that any opt-in plaintiffs are not similarly situated, defendants may move for decertification at that time.

CONCLUSION

In light of the above discussion, plaintiff's motion for conditional certification of a collective action is GRANTED except to the extent that plaintiffs shall amend their proposed notice to reflect the changes indicated by the Court on the attached proposed notice form.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that within one week of the date of this Order, defendants shall provide plaintiffs with an excel document including the names, titles, period of employment, last known mailing addresses, any alternative addresses, all known telephone numbers, and the primary language of all covered employees.

The Clerk of Court is directed to terminate the motion at Docket No. 29.

DESCRIPTION OF THE LAWSUIT

On January 5, 2012, Stacy Sanchez commenced a lawsuit and, on November 8, 2012, a first amended complaint was filed by Nikisha Obermuller and Stacy Sanchez ("named plaintiffs") in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York against Gansevoort Management Group Inc., and its owners and managers (hereinafter "Gansevoort").

The lawsuit alleges that Gansevoort failed to pay its workers overtime pay to which they were entitled under the Fair Labor Standards Act ("FLSA"), and seeks to have Gansevoort pay the amounts that are owed, if any, plus liquidated damages. (The lawsuit also seeks attorneys' fees and costs.)

Gansevoort denies that it violated the law, that it owes any employee any additional compensation, and that it owes liquidated damages.

This lawsuit is a collective action, meaning the named plaintiffs have brought it on behalf of the named plaintiffs and anyone similarly situated. Gansevoort identified you to the Court as a person who may be similarly situated.

You may be eligible to join this lawsuit if you were employed by Gansevoort any time since [three years before the mailing date of the notice] and, during that time, you worked over forty hours in any workweek and either (1) Gansevoort did not pay you for all the hours you worked for Gansevoort, or (2) Gansevoort did not pay you overtime compensation in the amount of one and one-half your hourly rate of pay for all hours you worked for Gansevoort in excess of forty hours per workweek. (ICBF)

You may join the lawsuit regardless of your immigration situation or authorization to work, now or during the time you were employed.
